Directions (Q. 11-15): Below is given a passage followed by several possible inference which can be drawn from the facts stated in the passage. You have to examine each inference separately in the context of the passage and decide upon its degree of truth or falsity.

Mark answer (1): if the inference is "definitely true", i.e., it properly follows from the statement of facts given.

Mark answer (2): if the inference is "probably true" though not "definitely true" in the light of the facts given.

Mark answer (3): if the "data is inadequate", i.e., from the facts given, you cannot say whether the inference is likely to be true or false.

Mark answer (4): if the inference is "probably false" though not "definitely false" in the light of the facts given.

Mark answer (5): if the inference is "definitely false", i.e., it cannot possibly be drawn from the facts given or it contradicts the given facts.

Note: Each of the five questions has only one distinct answer, i.e., no two questions can have the same answer. If you get the same answer for more than one question, consider both again and decide which one of the two would more definitely be that answer and in the same way review the others also.

Cardiovascular disease is so prevalent that virtually all businesses are likely to have employees who suffer from, or may develop, this condition. Research shows that between 50-80% of all people who suffer a heart attack are able to return to work. However, this may not be possible if they have previously been involved in heavy physical work. In such cases, it may be possible to move the employee to lighter duties, with appropriate re-training where necessary. Similarly, high pressure, stressful work, even where it does not involve physical activity, should also be avoided. Human resource managers should be aware of the implications of job rules for employees with a cardiac condition.

11. Employees who suffer from cardiovascular diseases are mostly unable to return to work.
12. Employees suffering from cardiovascular diseases are unable to handle stressful situations.
13. Employees above the age of 50 are found to suffer from cardiovascular diseases.
14. Physical and stressful work definitely leads to a heart attack.
15. Heart disease can affect employee in any type of business.

Directions (Q. 186-200): Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it. Certain words / phrases have been printed in bold to help you locate them while answering some of the questions.

The modern world requires us to repose trust in many anonymous institutions. We strap ourselves in a flying tin can with two hundred other people not because we know the pilot but because we believe that airline travel is safe. Our trust in these institutions depends on two factors: skills and ethics. We expect that the people who run these institutions know what they are doing, that they build and operate machines that work as they are supposed to and that they are looking out for our welfare even though we are strangers.

When one of these factors is weak or absent, trust breaks down and we either pay a high price in safety – as in the Bhopal tragedy – or a large 'welfare premium' such as the elaborate security measures at airports. Trust - deficient environments work in the favour of the rich and powerful, who can command premium treatment and afford welfare premiums. Poor people can command neither, which is why air travel is safer than train travel, which in turn is safer than walking by the road side.

Every modern society depends on the trust in the skills and ethics of a variety of institutions such as schools and colleges, hospitals and markets. If we stopped believing in the expertise of our teachers, doctors and engineers, we will stop being a modern society.

As the institution among institutions, it is the duty of the state to ensure that all other institutions meet their ethical obligations. The 'Indian state has failed in its regulatory role. Consequently, we cannot trust our schools to turn out good graduates, we cannot ensure that our colleges turn out well trained engineers and we cannot guarantee that our engineers will turn out to be good products.

Last year, I was invited to speak at an undergraduate research conference. Most of the participants in this conference were students at the best engineering colleges in the State. One student who was driving me back and forth recounted a story about the previous year's final exam. One of his papers had a question from a leading textbook to which the textbook's answer was wrong. The student was in a dilemma : should he write the (wrong) answer as given in the textbook or should he write the right answer using his own analytical skills. He decided to do the latter and received a zero on that question. Clearly, as the student had suspected, the examiners were looking at the textbook answer while correcting the examination papers instead of verifying its correctness.

The behaviour of these examiners is a breakdown of institutional morals, with consequences for the skills acquired by students. I say institutional morals, for the failure of these examiners is not a personal failure. At the same conference! met a whole range of college teachers, all of whom were drafted a examiners at some time or the other. Without exception, they were dedicated individuals who cared about the education and welfare of their students. However, when put in the institutional role of evaluating an anonymous individual, they fail in fulfilling their responsibilities. When some of our best colleges are run in this fashion, is it any wonder that we turn out unskilled engineers and scientists? If, as we are led to expect, there is a vast increase in education at all levels and the regulatory regime is as weak as it is currently, isn't it likely that the trust deficit is only going to increase?

We are all aware of the consequences of ignoring corruption at all levels of society. While institutional failures in governance are obvious, I think the real problem lies deeper, in the failure of everyday institutions that are quite apart from institutions that impinge on our lives only on rare occasions. It is true that our lives are made more miserable by government officials demanding bribes for all sorts of things, but what about the everyday lying and cheating and breaking of rules with people who are strangers?

Let me give you an example that many of us have experienced. I prefer buying my fruits and vegetables from roadside vendors rather than chain stores. To the vendor, I am probably an ideal customer, since I do not bargain and I do not take hours choosing the best pieces, instead, letting the vendor do the selecting. The market near my house is quite busy; as a result, most vendors are selling their wares to strangers. It takes a while before a particular vendor realises that I am a repeat customer. In such a situation trust is crucial. I have a simple rule : if a vendor palms off a bad piece whose defects are obvious, I never go back to that person again. It is amazing how often that happens.

In my opinion, the failure of institutional ethics is an much about these little abuses of trust as anything else. Everyday thievery is like roadside trash, if you let it accumulate the whole neighbourhood stinks.

Total number of products = 900

Computers

Refrigerators

$$= 900 \times \frac{32}{100} = 288 \quad \text{Cat. A} = 144 \\ \text{Cat. B} = 144$$

Mobile = 900 - (225 + 300 + 288) = 87

$$\text{Cat. B} = 87 \times \frac{1}{3} = 29$$

∴ Cat. A = 58

51. (2) 150 + 144 + 29 = 323
